Qualify early for absentee voting

Those wishing to cast absentee ballots in the Nov. 4 general election should make preparations immediately concerning affidavits, reminds Hancock County circuit court clerk Henry Otis.

Voters must qualify as absentee voters, Otis said, before ballots can be mailed out.

In addition, Otis said all those who voted by absentee ballot in the first two Democratic primaries should contact the circuit clerk's office to confirm their mailing address.

Otis said that he was most concerned that students away at school and registered to vote in the general election be reminded to file for absentee ballots.

Absentee ballots must be received at the circuit clerk's office by noon Nov. 3 in order to be tabulated in the general election.

As an added convenience to voters, Otis said his office would be open half a day Saturday, Nov. 1 for anyone who wishes to vote absentee.

Board approves motion to curb Beat One spending

By DAN BARBER

Beat One Supervisor Jerry Ladner said Monday he had "enough" to operate his beat through Nov. 1, but was going to be forced to ask for another loan after Nov. 4 to perform road and bridge maintenance during the last two months of the calendar year.

Ladner said he felt confident he could convince enough board members after that date to approve another $20,000 loan to finance the debt plagued beat another two months.

Ladner's troubles came to a point Monday after Beat Five Supervisor Jimmy Travirca effectively introduced a motion to limit spending in Beat One to $11,000 until Jan. 1, 1976. The motion oddly enough received a second from Ladner, who may have viewed it as the only alternative to an earlier motion by Travirca to curtail spending completely.

Travirca said Ladner would be $400 in the hole by the end of the month "if he was cut off today." He listed a $20,000 interfund loan made last month, a $10,000 docket, a $4,100 equipment note and $2,300 in personal salary for the remaining three months. Ladner said he had anticipated income of about $36,000 covering the final three months of the year.

Board members approved a $20,000 interfund loan to Ladner's beat in August, but tried to undo the snafu after board attorney Sam Favre said the loan was "illegal" and done without his knowledge.

Ladner was to have repaid the loan by Sept. 30, but it became obvious Ladner had not repaid the loan Monday after defeated Beat One candidate Harlan G. Dean queried board president Dolph Kellar about the loan.

Ladner said Monday he intended to use tax revenues received during October and November to repay the loan as well as operate his beat, but that he did intend to seek another loan of $20,000 from the board following the Nov. 4 election.

By law Ladner cannot exceed spending during the last quarter of his elected term of office over what was spent during the final quarter over the preceeding three years.

Ladner said he had already reduced his payroll from $15,000 in August to $5,829.66 in September and would have a total expense in September of $9,966.35 including parts and payroll.

Waveland tackles streets

Waveland streets are to undergo a complete refurbishment, according to Waveland city fathers, who Wednesday listed which streets are to be fixed under revenue sharing programs and which under the existing sewer "fix-up" contract.

Cited under revenue sharing were Arnold Street, with an overlay from Old Spanish Trail to U. S. 90; Gladstone St., McLauren St. to the Bay St. Louis city line; Ladner St., Old Spanish Trail to U. S. 90; Chadwick St. to the railroad tracks; Amelda St.; St. Joseph St. to Jeff Davis St.; the north half of Marcus St., and Olivery St.

The balance of other streets will be fixed as part of the sewer project, Mayor John Longo emphasized.

Waveland aldermen instructed city engineers, Lewis Eaton Partnership of Jackson, to inspect the designated "priority" throughfares and prepare specifications suitable for the solicitation of bids.

Relative to the availability of funds, Ed Lewis of the engineering firm, discussed possible price increase should soils tests be needed over the designated roads. City officials, however, indicated that such a necessity could probably be avoided since all were traveled streets and possessed some form of existing hard surface or base.

Property owner easements are to be sought to alleviate some drainage problems on Mollere Drive where, according to Alderman Charles Johnson, "...we have a tremendous problem."

City Attorney Lucien Gex said he was preparing required letters for mailing within the next few days permitting, it is hoped, a fairly rapid solution.

In other business quick appeals for funds were approved. Aldermen made a $50 donation to the Bay High School band for a proposed band festival in which the group hopes to compete.

Aldermen also agreed to purchase a $15 advertisement in the school's year book.

The Waveland Jaycettes were given $50 as a down payment on a civic project involving refurbishment of the city's litter barrels. The barrels will be transported by city truck to Ashman Construction yard where they will be cleaned and repainted. The down payment was earmarked to cover the first batch of ten barrels located along Coleman Avenue.

Mrs. Claire Bourgeois, Waveland's tax assessor-collector, reported the city's tax assessment rolls closed Oct. 7, after being open for inspection for the previous month. Mrs. Bourgeois reported only one official complaint had been received in this time, resulting in an assessment being reduced from $2,300 to $1,400.

A request from Sutter Well Works, Pass Christian, for payment of $588.60 for work allegedly done in connection with the installation of pumping equipment on the four inch wells at Market and Terrace Streets was declined by aldermen.

Citing the need for a 16 channel scanner-receiver in their emergency police, fire, and civil defense communications center, aldermen approved a bid from Marine Electronics of Ocean Springs for a $219 unit.

Waveland police chief Donald Dorn said the unit would enable instant monitoring of Mobile Medic transmissions permitting instant police cooperation and assistance while inside the city.

"It might make all the difference with heart patients," the mayor allowed.

In other matters, aldermen approved payment of $890.50 on the first quarter billing of the Senior Citizens Program. Total amount previously accepted by council for the full year was $4,762. This program is being staged by the Southern Mississippi Planning and Development District. The breakdown was given as, Day Care, $300; Nutrition, $150; Transportation, $150; Senior Aide, $290.50.

A second program, RSVP, under the same overall sponsorship, has been allocated $1,200 by the city. A request that the full payment be made at one time was approved and the city clerk instructed to prepare necessary payment documents.

Louisana man killed in traffic fatality Sunday

One traffic fatality and a suspect charged with 16 counts of burglary headed up the Waveland police activities sheet this week.

Additionally, law enforcement officers have laid charges in 15 other burglary cases, and on the basis of information received, are working toward solving several other outstanding breaking and entering cases.

The fatality occurred at 3 a.m., Oct. 5, at Beach Blvd. east of Nicholson. Police said Steven Murphy, 19, from Arabi, La., visiting over the weekend in Clermont Harbor, died from injuries received after his car struck another parked vehicle owned by Jon Fowler on the side of the beach. Murphy died at 4:30 a.m. Sunday at Gulfport Memorial Hospital.

A passenger in the car, Tom Wesner, 17, also of Clermont Harbor, sustained minor head injuries, was treated at Hancock General and released.

The 16 count burglary charge was laid against Michael Rodriguez, 21, now in county jail under a $10,000 bond set by Waveland City Judge Lucien Gex.

Rodriguez was being sought by Waveland police under an "information and belief" warrant issued in 1974. This investigation concerned a break-in at Trapani's Knock-Knock on U.S. 90.

Police said they received a tip following their receipt of a "hold warrant" issued by Jefferson Parish police following a complaint pressed by Rodriguez's brother-in-law. This complaint centered around the alleged theft of some old coins valued at approximately $750. The tip located the suspect at a residence in Shoreline Park with the subsequent arrest being made by Chief Donald Dorn and Deputy Terry Holmes of the Waveland PD, and Sheriff Sylvan Ladner and Chief Deputy Lathon Garriga of the county squad.

Following interrogation by both PD's the 16 count charge resulted. The suspect allegedly admitted a series of area B&E's and provided officers with the names of accomplices.

A preliminary hearing for Rodriguez will be tonight in the Waveland City Court.

Army schedules hearing on NSTL ammo plant

The suspected and expected impact on local environment resulting from construction of a U. S. Army ammunition plant in Hancock County, will be topics of a public hearing next Thursday, Oct. 16, at NASA's National Space Technology Laboratories, the former Mississippi Test Facility.

A NASA spokesman said "the Department of the Army will conduct a public hearing Oct. 16 to receive comment on the draft environmental impact statement for the proposed establishment of an army ammunition plant at the NASA National Space Technology Laboratories in Hancock County, Miss."

The public hearing will start at 7:30 p.m. at the NSTL Central Control Building, Building 1200.

The spokesman said an "open gate" policy will be observed for the hearing. Security guards will be at the site's North and South gates to assist visitors by giving direction to the Central Control Building.

Following a discussion of the background and content of the proposal, comments will be received. Citizens and groups are encouraged to attend and present written statements. Additionally, oral presentations will be heard and recorded. Written comments may also be mailed directly to the office of the project manager for Munitions Production, Base Modernization and Expansion, attention AMCPM-PBM-T-EV, Dover, N. J.

Controversy over the plant's construction erupted recently in Washington, D. C., when the House Appropriations Committee included a general provision in its Defense Appropriations Bill, which effectively lobbed funds off the Mississippi project.

The House, while permitting the initiation of design and the procurement of production equipment, recommended these efforts and expenditures be earmarked for an existing facility presently closed, curtailed, or placed in "lay-away" status.

The plant originally planned for Hancock County, to be built inside the NASA NSTL buffer zone, would produce 155 MM artillery ammunition and employ in the neighborhood of 1,000 persons.

Senator John C. Stennis last month expressed his "extreme regret" over the House move and said that he certainly did not consider the decision as being final.

"The Senate has not acted on this matter," the chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee said, "and I certainly do not consider the recommendation of the House Committee as final at all."

Stennis added that he intended to do everything he could to get the full $45.2 million requested in the budget included in the Senate bill with, "...instructions for the Army to proceed with construction of the Mississippi plant."

Stennis predicts partial economic recovery

NATCHEZ, MISS. - Although inflation continues to erode purchasing power and unemployment is expected to decline slowly, Senator John C. Stennis Thursday night expressed the consensus of most economists predicting for 1976 "a partial recovery from the recession along with continued, but somewhat less severe inflation."

Speaking to the Natchez-Adams County Chamber of Commerce, Stennis listed several factors on which almost all economists agree which could hamper rapid recovery from the recession. "Inflation, although not necessarily above 10 percent, will be higher than any post-war year except 1975. The cost of borrowing for cars, houses and other items will be at record or near record levels. Pay increases, or most of them, will be eaten up by inflation. Jobs will continue to be scarce and the cost of purchasing a home may be beyond the reach of many middle class Americans, particularly young people," Stennis said.

Stennis called last week's 10 percent increase in the price of foreign oil completely "outrageous and unjustified" and said that even the uncertain economic predictions for 1976 "are based on the assumption that increases in the cost of fuel and food will be relatively moderate." He continued, "If this assumption is wrong, if the price of fuel and food skyrocket, then all bets will be off and we will have an entirely different ball game."

DEATHS

EARL EDWARD LADNER SR.

Funeral services for Earl Edward Ladner, Sr., 65, a derrick operator with International Paper Company and a resident of Kiln, Miss., who died Friday, October 3, at Gulfport Memorial Hospital, were held at 10:30 a.m. Saturday from Riemann-Fahey Funeral Home Chapel followed by interment in Bayou Coco Cemetery.

Born October 31, 1909, in Standard, Miss., he was the son of the late David and Lula Cameron Ladner.

Mr. Ladner is survived by his wife, Mrs. Birtie Favre Ladner of Kiln; two sons, James Larry Ladner of Hattiesburg, Miss., and Earl E. Ladner Jr. of Kiln; a daughter, Mrs. Carolyn Ann Adam of Bay St. Louis; two brothers, J. Hugh Ladner of Ponca City, Okla., and B. J. Johnson of Picayune, Miss.; two sisters, Mrs. Pearl Bennett of Gulfport and Mrs. Lola Lewis of Cybur, Miss., and 14 grandchildren.

LOUIS M. BERNARD

Funeral services for Louis M. Bernard, 54, public building superintendent for City of New Orleans, were held at 2 p.m. Monday at Joseph Laughlin Funeral Home, New Orleans. Interment was in Greenwood Cemetery.

Mr. Bernard died at 5:50 p.m., Friday, October 3, at his Bayou View Drive home in Bay St. Louis.

Born July 27, 1921, in New Orleans he was a resident of 714 Cadiz Ave., New Orleans.

Mr. Bernard was a World War II U. S. Navy veteran; a member of Isis Masonic Lodge F&AM and Jerusalem Shrine Temple, New Orleans.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Shirley Incardona Bernard of New Orleans; a son, Louis M. Bernard Jr. of New Orleans; two daughters, Mrs. Paul Blackwell Jr. of Long Beach, Miss.; and Miss Kim Bernard of New Orleans, and a brother Thomas Bernard of Jefferson, La.

MRS. MARY A. HODA

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary A. Saucier Hoda, 77, 522 Easterbrook Street, Bay St. Louis, who died Friday, Oct. 3, at her residence, were held 2 p.m. Sunday at Riemann-Fahey Funeral Home Chapel with Rev. Michael Tracey, associate pastor Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church, officiating. Interment was in Rotten Bayou Cemetery.

Born June 6, 1898, in DeLisle, Miss., she was the daughter of the late Alexander and Lucina Page Saucier and was a member of Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church.

Survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Lelia M. Johnson of Bay St. Louis; three stepsons, Ervin and Alva Hoda of Rocky Hill Community, and Edward Hoda of Florida; six grandchildren and three great-grandsons.

Just curious

Sweethearts Maude and George get a curious look from squirrel in Mississippi University for Women's production of the children's classic "The Tortoise and the Hare" being presented Oct. 4 and 11 in Orr Arena. George is portrayed by Margaret Hamilton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe J. Hamilton of Bay St. Louis. Ms. Hamilton is a senior business major. Squirrel and Maude are played by Lisa Bartlett and Karen Adams.

Pressing is essential part of home-sewing projects

MISSISSIPPI STATE — Pressing is an essential part of any home-sewing project. Good pressing techniques help to create a professional-looking garment. Correct pressing helps shape the fabric to your figure, flatten seams and edges, and save you time.

To gain skill in pressing, you need both the right equipment and the "know how," says Miss Marguerite Davis, clothing specialist, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service. No amount of careful cutting, fitting and construction can make up for too much pressing, too little pressing, or incorrect pressing techniques.

"Practice the following techniques and you will soon become an expert," states the specialist.

Before pressing the garment you are making always test your iron on a scrap of the fabric. Set the heat indicator for the type of fiber. For a blend, set the indicator for the fiber requiring the lower temperature. For example, a polyester-wool blend usually should be pressed at the temperature polyester requires. Test the material for how much moisture, if any, is needed to shape it. Also check to see which type of press cloth gives the best results.

Thorough pressing during each construction step contributes to a precision look, besides making the construction easier. It makes each following construction step easier, thus saving time. Very little final pressing is necessary for a garment which has been properly pressed while being made.

True pressing calls for a lowering-and-lifting motion. This flattens the seam or molds the detail without stretching the seam or distorting the grain. Never push or drag the iron over the fabric.

Press curved seams and shaped areas over a pressing ham or cushion. This helps mold the garment to the figure. It also helps the garment hold its shape.

All pressing should be done with the grain, just as in stitching, advises Miss Davis. Press seams from the wide to the narrow part of the garment — from the hem to the waist of the skirt, from the neck to the sleeve at the shoulder, toward the point of a dart, etc.

Most pressing is done on the wrong side of the garment. If moisture is needed, use a steam iron or a damp cloth. For best results, dampen the cloth with a sponge. When pressing on the right side of the garment, protect the fabric with a cloth.

Press each seam, tuck, or dart before it is joined to another seam. Basting threads should be removed before pressing. Steam pressing over basting stitches will cause markings to appear in the fabric that, for many fabrics, are almost impossible to remove.

Be sure the ironing board pad and cover are completely free of lumps and folds, for many fabrics will pick up marks or develop a shine when pressed over any unevenness. Keep the soleplate of the iron clean and free of any scratches.

A well-pressed garment will have a neat, finished, professional appearance. The garment will have a smooth, rounded look over curved areas of the body. The natural finish on the right side will be free from shiny areas or "show-through" seam allowances.

Be more selective when buying milk products

MISSISSIPPI STATE — Milk and milk products are an important part of your diet. Buy fresh fluid milk at a food or retail dairy store. Home-delivered milk usually costs more. Milk at small convenience stores may cost more, too.

"Buy fresh milk in one-half or one gallon containers if you can use that much milk without waste," advises Mrs. Ann Rushing, marketing specialist, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service. "You can usually save a few cents per quart by buying containers larger than quart size."

Use evaporated milk in cooking, and use nonfat dry milk in cooking and as a beverage, she suggests.

If you rely on milk as your principal source of vitamin D, use fortified nonfat dry milk. Some families mix equal amounts of fresh whole milk and reconstituted nonfat dry milk for drinking.

FISHING BY DEGREES

Fish are particular about where they live. If the surroundings aren't perfect, they'll move out and find a new home.

Ask any largemouth bass and he'll tell you that he prefers to live in water that ranges in temperature between 70 and 75 degrees. Trout, on the other hand, like air conditioning and much cooler temperatures.

As the outside air temperature reaches its normal summer level across the country, the fishing experts at Mercury outboards rely upon modern electronic water thermometers to indicate the best potential depth for the species of fish they seek.

With a battery-operated thermometer it is possible to read the water temperature at various levels by slowly lowering the instrument's probe. Experienced anglers know that water temperature and oxygen content are allied; the warmer the water the less oxygen it can hold. And fish require differing amounts of oxygen for survival. Knowing what temperature level is preferred by certain species of fish, then locating this ideal temperature (therefore the proper oxygen content) allows the angler to pinpoint where he needs to fish.

Campaign changes 'Deanie' Carmichael's daily routine

On weekends she's washing clothes and keeping up with her 11-year-old son.

Tuesday through Friday she's on the road, bright and gay, touring factories, clasping hands, giving speeches and talking with the press.

She's Mrs. Gil Carmichael. Or as the diminutive brunette is known to friends and acquaintances, she's Deanie.

"Keeping this family in clothes can be a real chore," Deanie sighs. When she gets exasperated she terms herself "an old washerwoman."

The Carmichaels normally lead a very quiet, unpretentious home life with Gil the breadwinner and Deanie the mother and housewife.

But these months are not usual for them as Gil seeks the governor's chair in an historic race.

"This is one thing I love about Gil," Deanie says. "He let's me be me. So he said if you're comfortable campaigning, come with me. If you're not, don't."

"Maybe he just knows how to handle me after 21 years," she says with a grin."

Deanie's role in the campaign is to talk about the personal side of the candidate.

When asked about issues in the campaign she replies: "It's not my views, but Gil's you need. I honestly can't tell you what he thinks, but I'll find out for you."

Deanie also declines speculation on her programs as First Lady: "It would be presumptuous of me to make plans until Gil's elected."

On the road from Tuesday morning until Friday night, Deanie works two to three counties daily, stopping anywhere and everywhere to ask for support.

Before she started she was hesitant about campaigning: "My self confidence was zero. I didn't know if I could cope, I was afraid."

Now she's comfortable and aggressive and doesn't miss a possible voter, even if it means stomping through ankle deep mud in Jefferson County or stooping beneath cars in Lafayette County.

"Hi, I'm Deanie Carmichael," she says. "Please vote for my husband, Gil. He's a good man. We need you to come out and vote."

Before larger audiences she'll talk in more detail about her husband.

"From the time we moved to Meridian, Gil has been interested in community life," she says.

"He has worked hard to raise money for local projects. He is a vital part of the community because he realizes the needs.

"A friend of ours said he dreaded to hear Gil's voice on the telephone because he knew he would be asking for money for a community project."

On a different note she explains Gil's devotion to St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

"He's taught adult Bible studies for 12 years," she says. "In 1972 he almost killed himself campaigning all week and then trying to teach Sunday morning. I had to fight to get him to agree not to this year."

"Gil's a humanist," Deanie describes her husband.

"He gives of himself."

"Really, if I weren't his wife, I'd still be beating the bushes for him as governor, because I'd like that type man to represent me."

On Friday night Deanie returns to look after her son Scott, and hit the washing machines again.

She admits looking forward to the time when life will "get back to normal."

DRINKING PROBLEMS OF A FISH

What does a fish do when it gets thirsty?

Drink water, of course. On the other hand, who ever heard of a thirsty fish? With all that water around, you'd think they would be tired of the stuff.

This is not the case, according to biologists' reports studied by the angling experts at Mercury outboards. They say that some fish drink water to satisfy a great thirst, while others continually work their body system at full pace in an effort to prevent additional water intake.

Salt is the key to a fish's internal water needs. Salt is a necessary element in fish blood, and the presence or absence of it in the surrounding water determines the amount of drinking a fish does.

Because salt tends to diffuse by osmosis from areas of high concentration to areas of low concentration, freshwater fish are always losing salt from their blood. To counteract this, their kidneys function primarily to remove water from their bodies and retain the salts. Freshwater fish do little drinking, preferring to stay "on the wagon" most of the time.

Saltwater fish, however, are in constant danger of losing too much water because their environment is saltier than their bodies. They must drink a lot of water to compensate for this loss, and they have developed specialized body functions to maintain the proper salt balance.

ASC ballot lists available to public

A list of the names of all persons to receive ballots in the upcoming annual ASC committeemen election is available in the county ASCS office for Pearl River and Hancock Counties.

Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS), an agency of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, is responsible for farm program administration. On the local level, ASCS operates under the farmer-elected committee system. This year's election will be held on December 1, 1975, according to Madelyn R. Williams, Acting County Executive Director.

Hancock County is a one community county. Pearl River County has five communities. Community boundaries have been set according to the old beats in Pearl River County and a list is available to the public of those farms in those communities.

Hancock and Pearl River Counties' farmers have the opportunity to nominate persons they feel would best serve the farm community. Farmers will soon receive petition forms by mail and may begin submitting them to the county ASCS office on October 2.

A few basic considerations should be kept in mind when circulating petitions. In order to be valid, petitions must be limited to one nominee each, must include written certification that the nominee is willing to serve if elected, must be signed by at least three eligible form voters in the ASC community, and must be received in the county ASCS office no later than October 28, 1975.

Anyone wishing to nominate a farmer for the ASC committee election may contact the county ASCS office for full details, including eligibility requirements for officeholders.

Pooch of the Week

Jack, a one and a half year old mixed setter and spitz, is waiting to give his love to a new family. Gentle with children, yet an alert watchdog, and completely housebroken, Jack has been cited as "the most available male dog" at the Waveland Animal Shelter on Spruce St.

Other dogs also eagerly looking for homes include a white, male collie, a mixed English setter, about 14 months old, female, and, a new arrival at the shelter, a sable and white female collie with long hair and gentle disposition. Further information is available at 467-3739, 467-9236, and 467-7173.

Consumer concerned over food quality

MISSISSIPPI STATE – Americans have been eating and drinking more pop, candy, potato chips, doughnuts and pizza in increasingly large amounts as America turns into more of a snacking rather than a meal-eating nation.

These snack foods give the diet a heavy load of calories, without providing many of the other nutrients needed for good health, warns Ann O. Rushing, marketing specialist, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service. Surveys of the kinds of food eaten show that choices, regardless of income level, are made in ignorance or indifference to what is nutritionally a sound diet.

Consumer interest in food prices and the onslaught of nutrition information seems to be causing more concern with quality of food choices, and could possibly lead to improved food habits, states Mrs. Rushing. "Good nutrition does not depend on how much is spent for food, but on how wisely that money is spent," she added.

R&D provides directory

JACKSON — To inform manufacturers of services provided by over 200 Mississippi metalworking companies, the R & D Center has published "Mississippi Metalworking Services Directory."

Prepared by the Center's Economic Analysis Division, the directory is designed to serve as a tool for producing additional business and jobs in Mississippi. According to James R. Williamson, one of the authors, "The relatively rapid increase in the metalworking field in Mississippi in recent years now provides a means of serving the manufacturers' needs at a lower cost than would be possible if they had to consider buying such services outside the state."

"By making the information presented in the directory available, we hope to encourage the firms inside the state that are now purchasing metalworking services outside Mississippi to establish contacts which will produce additional business for companies already located here," he said.

Individual company listings arranged in alphabetical order by company name form the main portion of the directory. Information provided on each firm includes the firm's equipment and its capacity, as well as company name, address, and telephone number; names and titles of plant officials; and number of employees.

The director has four indices, including the Alphabetical Index, Index by Major Classification, Process Capability Index, and Geographical Index.

In the Alphabetical Index, all metalworking service firms are listed in alphabetical order by company name. The Index by Major Classification lists the companies in the following major categories of metalworking services: casting, cutting, fastening, forming, heat treating, machinery, repair of industrial equipment, surface cleaning, surface coating, testing and inspection, and miscellaneous industrial services.

To receive a copy of "Mississippi Metalworking Services Directory" at no charge, contact Public Information Office, R & D Center, P. O. Drawer 2470, Jackson, MS. 39205, telephone 982-6466.

Waveland ends fiscal year with city fund in black

The City of Waveland eased into the new fiscal year $304,572.21 in the black.

City clerk Barbara Rappold tabled the year end balance sheet Wednesday as city fathers met in regular evening session.

The fiscal report followed the approval for payment of September's claim docket amounting, from the general fund, to some $18,007.67. During the same period the sewer department had bills amounting to $347.41, and the water section's total expenditures for the month came to $4,650.

Mayor John Longo told aldermen the city is in "good financial shape."

In her fiscal report, Rappold showed all funds to be individually healthy and the city in the position of being able to finance its operations until the receipt of tax funds in January of 1976.

Stressing that Waveland would have no need of a bank loan to tide city operations over from the end of the fiscal year to the beginning of the calendar year, Longo said Waveland will transfer $25,000 from the all purpose fund to the general fund, adding this plus $40,000 owed the general fund by the bond account will, when supplemented by income from sales taxes and tag sales, provide the necessary operating cash.

Questioned on the intended disposition of the personal property tax income, Longo explained the 28 mill assessment, which will realize about $20,000, would be disbursed 15 mills to the general fund, 11 mills to the bond fund, and two mills towards repayment of the G.E.C. loan.

Total sales tax income for the three month period has been estimated at about $30,000. The 15 mills from tags will add about another $10,000, bringing the general fund total available to pay bills to approximately $105,000.

Individual balances in the Rappold report were shown as, Town Fund, $5,912.86; Town Bond and Coupon Account, $9,713.95; Fire Protection Fund, $6,366.59; Sewerage Construction Fund, $2,578.57; Water and Gas Bond and Interest Fund, $16,086.04; Water and Gas Coupon Account, $1,580; Water and Gas Meter Deposit Fund, $1,706.87; G. E. C. Loan Account, $101.19; State Loan Retirement Fund, $1,266.36; Bond and Coupon Account, $73,761.32; Water and Gas Contingent, $10,000; Bond and Interest Cushion Fund, $77,999.52; Water and Gas Meter Deposit Fund, $15,894.80; Water and Gas Depreciation Fund, $10,000; Sewerage Treatment Facility Fund, $19,932.15; Revenue Sharing No. 5, $17,281.03; Sewer Revenue Bond and Interest Fund, $82.54; 201 Facility Fund, $34,308.42.

Lott calls reversal 'great victory'

WASHINGTON - Congressman Trent Lott (R-Miss.) said that last week's reversal of an earlier House of Representatives decision to prohibit funds for relocation of the Navy's Oceanographic Office headquarters was "a great victory for people who want to get the best out of their government."

The House late Wednesday narrowly approved a surprise Defense Appropriations amendment offered by Congresswoman Gladys Noon Spellman (D-Md.), who asked that federal funds not be used to move the Oceanographic Office from Suitland, Md., to Hancock County, Ms. After a rarely used parliamentary procedure allowed a reconsideration vote early Thursday, the House reversed itself and rejected the amendment by a 220-190 margin.

The Defense Appropriations measure now goes to the Senate Appropriations Committee, where Senator John Stennis (D-Miss.) is a key member.

"We really felt that many members didn't understand the amendment," Lott explained during a radio report to his constituents in Mississippi's Fifth Congressional District. "We argued that it was not a Mississippi-versus-Maryland issue, not an issue of personalities. Rather, it was a simple question of what was best for the Navy and the country."

Lott said the amendment was rejected after "12 hours of the most difficult work I've ever tried." He also praised the entire Mississippi congressional delegation, who worked throughout the night to reverse the decision.

Lott told his constituents that he had voted against the Postal Reorganization bill, which would have approved $2.6 million in subsidies, as well as a 20 percent postal rate increase. The bill was subsequently withdrawn from the House calendar and will be brought up at a later date.

"I opposed it because I just don't want to vote for an increase in subsidies and in postage stamps," he explained. "I kept thinking about the problems my constituents continue to have with the mail."

A Step in the right direction

When Mississippi voters go to the polls once again on November 4, they will find on their ballots three proposed amendments to our Constitution of 1890.

Those amendments include repeal of the poll tax, cancellation of literacy requirements for voting, and reforms in the justice of the peace system.

The first two amendments are mere formalities. Both changes have been made by the federal courts and national legislation. But the third amendment hits very close to home – our lower courts.

The Mississippi Economic Council recommends passage of the amendment. It's a step in the right direction. Among the strong points is the provision which requires that each justice of the peace have a high school diploma or the equivalent. The amendment provides an exception for those officers who had been elected or were in office before the amendment takes effect – if passed – by January 1, 1976. That includes all those elected in this year's elections.

The proposal also boosts the jurisdiction of the peace justices from cases amounting to $200 to those amounting to $500. Proponents of the amendment claim the change will take a great case load off the circuit courts of our state.

The names of the courts would be changed to "Justice Courts" and the titles of the peace justices to "Justice Court Judges."

The MEC has suggested a step-by-step raising of the educational requirements for each peace justice. The requirements would be boosted until a junior college education is required for all except those with previous experience in the post.

The Council also recommends abolition of the fee system, with all justices receiving a set salary between $1,800 and $12,000 with salaries to be based on population. Miss. Economic Council.

"News About Your Mansion"

by Carroll Waller

With every day that passes I understand more clearly the feeling of the mad hatter in "Alice in Wonderland." Every day brings increased activity at the Mansion and I, too, rush around with the feeling that "I'm late, I'm late, for a very important date."

Jessie Owens, former Olympic star, was added to our VIP list this week. It was an honor that this busy man, the first American to ever win five gold medals at the Olympics, took time to visit the Mansion.

As I write this another VIP very special to our Mansion is due for a visit. Dr. A. R. Mortensen, director of the office of Archeology and Preservation at the National Park Service - Department of the Interior, who played such an important role in getting National Historic Landmark recognition for our Mansion and in having the plaque presented as part of our Formal Opening, is coming to see the finished product. At the time of his visit to inspect the Mansion he was interested only in the original historic architecture of the building and it was still in the process of being restored. It will be a special pleasure to show him our beautifully finished Mansion.

We are especially interested in having students who are studying Mississippi History tour the Mansion. A delightfully well behaved group of 115 third graders and their teachers visited from Ridgeland Elementary School.

University Hospital Auxiliary had a lovely reception on Tuesday and MUW alumni saw the Mansion during their reception on Wednesday. This group was interested in seeing Karl Wolfe's portrait, "The Lady In Yellow," of Mrs. White who was the first professor of law at the "W" – the state's only school for women and the oldest state owned school for women in the nation.

Over 400 persons attended the MUW reception without realizing they almost got to see the mad behind-the-scenes rush of the staff clearing away the remains of a state luncheon so the table in the Formal Dining Room could be arranged for the reception.

"Mississippi State Day" was a great success and we look forward to having our other Universities visit. Lovely MSU cheerleaders and Dog Catchers (their school spirit group) served as hostesses in the Mansion.

Washington Report

By: Rep. Trent Lott

A GREAT VICTORY

Mrs. Gladys Spellman of Maryland, whose congressional district stands to lose part of a $25 million payroll when the Navy moves its Oceanographic program to Hancock County, sought recognition from the Chairman of the House during debate on a Defense Appropriations bill last week.

"Mr. Chairman," she said, "I offer an amendment: 'None of the funds appropriated in this Act may be expended for any expenses of a relocation of the National Oceanographic Office headquarters of the Navy.' "

It was the Chairman's attention she was seeking, but it was my attention she quickly got. She was talking about a last-ditch effort to abort the Oceanographic move from Suitland, Maryland, to Mississippi.

And that naturally bothered me.

"Mr. Chairman, I am offering this amendment to prevent relocation by the Department of Defense of the National Oceanographic Headquarters from Suitland, Maryland, to Bay St. Louis, Mississippi. Of course, the primary purpose of my amendment is to prevent the snatching of jobs from over 1,200 civilians in my area and to prevent the dislocation of more than a thousand families."

"All I am asking is equal treatment for the employees of Oceanographic," she continued. "Do not take their jobs from them. Do not disrupt their lives. Do not force their families to be uprooted. Do not take their children out of schools and send them off to other school systems that are not ready to take care of them. Do not force women to have to give up their jobs to go with their husbands to Mississippi. Do not turn our backs on the black employees who have nothing waiting for them in Mississippi."

I countered with the argument that "there is a $2.8 million saving per year involved here. After the centralization costs are amortized over 7.1 years, a substantial savings will occur. There is a need for it, just on the basis of saving $2.8 million a year if nothing else."

Still, her motion won approval by a margin of 219-193. We came close, but we simply did not have the time to muster the necessary votes.

I worked late that night, searching for a way to reverse that decision. I found it in an unusual parliamentary procedure rarely used in the House.

The rest of the Mississippi delegation joined me on the telephones the next morning, telling our colleagues that this was more than a Mississippi-versus-Maryland issue. It was, we argued, a question of what was best for the Navy and the country.

When the House went into session later that morning, we had our forces ready. We felt that we had enough votes to turn that earlier decision around.

With our Mississippi delegation lobbying extensively on the floor with other members of the House – and with several members of the Louisiana delegation lending a hand – we managed to demand a new vote on the amendment. Congressman John Breaux of Louisiana was selected to be the one to ask the Speaker for a new vote.

Several minutes later we had overturned the amendment by a vote of 190-220. We had turned a 26-vote loss into a 30-vote victory!

It not only was a great legislative victory in the House, it was also a great victory for Americans who want to get the best out of their government. It was simply a matter of dollars and cents – YOUR tax dollars and cents.

Moments after the amendment was defeated, the House voted final passage on the Defense Appropriations bill, 353-61, and sent it to the Senate. Once it gains approval there, it will return for a House-Senate Conference where final changes can be made.

It culminated 12 of the most difficult legislative hours I've ever spent on Capitol Hill, but it was worth every minute – and cent – of it.

Bicentennial News

By JOE PILET

The search for an official Bicentennial slogan will end December 1.

Slogan winners will be determined by national ballot. Here's how it works:

As the slogans arrive, they are screened by American Legion, Jaycees and General Federation of Women's Clubs. The best two hundred slogans will be turned over to an executive screening board, consisting of 55 state and territorial bicentennial chairmen. They will determine the 20 finalists.

On January 18 the finalists will be announced at the football Superbowl game. For the next month the public will be invited to vote for the slogan they think most fitting. This will become the nation's official bicentennial slogan.

The prize is an attractive one. The winner will be invited to take his or her family on a month-long tour of America, winding up at the White House. American Motors will give a new station wagon, Holiday Inns will put the family up each night at the closest available inn. To cover the travel expenses the Copernicus Society will give the winner $5,000.

And More? There will be additional awards, including cash prizes from the Copernicus Society for the runner up slogans.

Wouldn't it be beautiful if our area produced a winner? If you'd like to submit your slogan mail your entry to:

Slogans, USA
P. O. Box 1976
Washington, D. C.

The deadline for national balloting will be cut off Feb. 16 and the winners will be announced on the first day of spring, March 21.

Governor's weekly roundup

Relation of education to working world examined

Governor Bill Waller has announced that the third annual Governor's Conference on Education will be held in Jackson Nov. 18-19 at the Holiday Inn Downtown.

"This Conference is designed to stimulate thought, participation, and dialogue among parents, humanists, educators, business and civic leaders, public officials and government leaders, state agency personnel and interested citizens about the key issues that influence our young people in their effort to become productive Mississippi citizens," Waller said.

The Governor said the Conference will be sponsored by the Governor's Office of Education and Training and will be partially funded by the Mississippi Committee for the Humanities.

Topics will include: The Work Ethic – Present, Past, and Future; The Present Work Situation in Mississippi; Limitations on Employment; Alternative Forms of Education, and other subjects.

Waller said that some 1,000 persons will be invited to participate in the Conference.

AWARD MADE

The Mississippi Clearing House for Drug Misuse Information has received a national award for its drug prevention efforts in the State.

The award was presented by the National Association of Mental Health Information Offices at a recent meeting in Nashville.

The award cited three projects of the Mississippi agency: The "involvement" series, a five-part television program designed to promote a better understanding between parents and their children; "Drug Spectrum," a weekly radio affairs program aired over a Jackson radio station; and a series of radio messages aimed at alerting the adults to the potential dangers of prescription drug misuse.

The Mississippi Clearing House project was chosen for the award over 30 other entries submitted from across the country.

COMMISSION APPROVES PLAN

Governor Bill Waller announced last week that the Governor's Commission on Crime and Delinquency has approved a $6.3 million dollar comprehensive plan for upgrading the criminal justice system in the State.

Waller said that the plan must now go to the Federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration in Atlanta for approval.

Waller also said that the Commission has approved $1.8 million in grants to various State and local units of government.

He said the money, which will be used to finance work in law enforcement, corrections in the justice system, was awarded to some ninety units of government across the State.

TRADE MART SUCCESS

Over 100,000 persons last week attended the 1975 Mississippi Industrial Showcase at the Mississippi Trade Mart and Coliseum in Jackson.

The Showcase, sponsored by the Marketing Council of the Mississippi A & I Board, contained over 300 exhibits of Mississippi industrial products.

Veteran's service office-Chester Curvey

Dental care available after discharge

Under the Veterans Administration's current dental care program, every veteran qualifies for a one time complete dental care treatment program following discharge, provided he applies to the VA within one year following military discharge and has his dental examination within 14 months following discharge.

This one time treatment will not include the replacement of a missing tooth, unless the missing tooth is verified as having been removed while the veteran was on active duty or by reason of injury received during his military service. Being "verified" means service dental records must show the removal of a tooth.

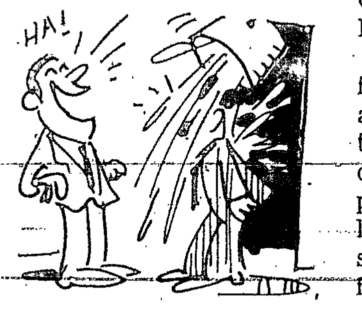
Teeth extracted within 90 days of entrance into active duty are considered hopeless at time of induction and therefore not replaced. Deeply impacted teeth which do not appear pathologically involved on X-ray and are asymptomatic, will not be authorized for removal. These teeth are considered congenital and not service incurred or aggravated.

To obtain this one time series of dental treatment, a veteran must submit his claim, usually a VA Form 10-10 to the VA serves as his request. On all dental claims the veteran must submit a copy of his DD-214 attached to the 10-10 to prevent delay of his claim.

When the claim is approved, the VA will send the veteran Dental Form 10-2570, which is provided for the dentist to express the results of the examination. The veteran is encouraged to obtain his examination through his own general dentist. The general dentist may ask for consultations and-or treatment by specialists. This must be approved by the VA in advance. The work may be done by the dentist of the Veteran's choice after approval.

Once the examination is completed, showing the dentist's name and address, the Form 10-2570 must be returned to the VA for a final determination and approval, as verified by in-service dental records. The approved dental treatment is then sent directly to the dentist, and a letter is sent to the veteran requesting he contact his dentist, or report to the VA Dental Service, so an agreement can be reached on a plan for early completion of his dental care. It is very important that the veteran waits for authorization for the treatment, because if treatment is performed before it is authorized by the VA; it will not be paid by VA.

Due to a new Public Law 93-579 called The Privacy Act a new power of attorney must be signed by all veterans and widows of veterans before your Hancock County Service Officer, Chester Curvey, is able to receive correspondence from the Veterans Administration Center. Will each person using the services of the County Service Officer come in and sign a new POA as soon as possible? Any time that you are in the area of the Court House, please stop by. For information on veteran's benefits call 467-5404.



Your homeowners insurance policy protects you against damage caused by accidents, but not from damage resulting from your intentional acts.

Wastewater treatment seminar to be held

A three-day biological wastewater treatment seminar, sponsored by Gulf South Research Institute (GSRI) and Tulane University, will be held in New Orleans October 20-22 at LePavillon Hotel.

The seminar will explore the fundamentals of industrial and municipal wastewater treatment. Included will be a demonstration of a field scale pilot plant and pertinent laboratory equipment installed at GSRI's lakefront facility.

Seminar leaders are John C. White, Regional Administrator, Environmental Protection Agency, Region VI, introductory speaker; W. Wesley Eckenfelder, Jr., Distinguished Professor at Vanderbilt University and world renowned industrial waste engineer; and Dr. Davis L. Ford, Engineering Science, Inc., Austin, Texas. Drs. A. J. Englande, Robert S. Reimers, and Terence J. McGhee of Tulane, and Drs. Elias Klein, James H. Mayes and John H. Coco of GSRI complete the seminar staff.

Registration is being handled by Tulane University's Office of Continuing Education in New Orleans.

Coastians travel to faith healer

A caravan of Greyhounds dogged the highway Tuesday when hundreds of coastians merged on Mobile Municipal Auditorium to hear Katherine Kuhlman, widely known as the "miracle worker."

Joined by like delegations from Gulfport and Biloxi, nine bus-loads of the faithful departed from Long Beach carrying persons from Bay St. Louis, Waveland, Pass Christian and Long Beach.

Ms. Kuhlman, who appears on national television each Sunday, has received credit for many "recoveries" allegedly brought about as the result of her "faith healing" ministry.

Thomas elected to Rural Electric Association

Henry Thomas, General Manager of Coast Electric Power Association, was recently elected to serve on the Resolutions Committee of the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association. This Association is the service organization of the nearly 1,000 borrowers of REA.

Since becoming Manager of Coast Electric in 1973, Thomas has become widely known for his positive and progressive beliefs concerning rural programs. He has spoken out against present energy proposals at all levels as being inadequate to meet the needs of electric consumers.

He serves and is a member of many civic and business organizations and was recently re-elected as Secretary-Treasurer of the Electric Power Associations of Mississippi.

Thomas will represent 88 rural electric systems in the States of Alabama, Mississippi, Tennessee and Kentucky, consisting of over 1 million member-consumers, while serving on this National Standing Committee.

Common access to brainpower makes NSTL unique

(Editor's note: This is another in a series of feature articles about the National Space Technology Laboratories located at what was formerly the NASA-Mississippi Test Facility in Hancock County, Mississippi. NASA-NSTL houses a group of U.S. Government agencies engaged in conducting research projects; managing related programs; performing technology application services for federal, state, and local governments, for universities and for private industry. Information on the availability of NASA-NSTL technology can be obtained by contacting the Office of the Governor, Office of Science and Technology, Jackson, Phone 354-6517.)

Scientists every day prove that space technology can be brought home to earth to make everyone's life safer, or healthier, or more pleasant.

In the words of Henry F. Auter, acting manager for NASA at the National Space Technology Laboratories, "We want to get the maximum return on our national investment by making knowledge quickly available for all interests, public and private, and to develop the means for doing so in the most efficient and least costly manner."

In truth, Mississippi's NSTL was originally an experiment in scientific and interagency cooperation. Now, it has moved from the experimental stage and has become a working reality. More than a dozen federal agencies and subagencies now have research and development scientists and specialists located at the site. Each has quick, down-the-hall access to one another's brains, laboratories, techniques, and equipment.

By the way, if you expect to move around in the world with any degree of understanding, you must develop a new vocabulary. The equipment developed -- machines, computers, monitors or whatever – is called "Hardware." The data collected by these far-out gadgets, any information or knowledge or other products of research is called "software." You will learn others as your exposure increases in this world of tomorrow atmosphere.

So, exchanging or using one another's hardware, having access to one another's software, makes for a quick and efficient operation, devoid of many of the problems involved in usual government interagency communications. To put it simply, it cuts out a lot of red tape!

One man among the many whose knowledge and experience compose the brainpower inventory at NSTL is Travis Roberts, a nationally-known environmentalist. He was formerly Deputy Director of the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife, U.S. Department of the Interior. Now retired from service and living nearby, he is often used as a consultant in some of the ongoing projects which involve his specialized knowledge.

Travis Roberts says that the most significant thing about the setup at Mississippi's NASA-NSTL is the efficiency of the concept. "It is the most efficient use of people and facilities that exist anywhere in government, a model that should be followed everywhere. You get the maximum return for every dollar spent when you have an arrangement like this," he stated. He ought to know–his entire career has been spent in government service at locations throughout the world.

At the Hancock site, NASA serves as the host agency. Just one of its responsibilities is management of the site. This is a big job in itself. NASA looks after about 140,000 acres of Mississippi real estate, something like 173 buildings, laboratories, test stands, work shops and miscellaneous canals, locks, docks, and you name it.

Most Mississippians are familiar with the fact that the huge Apollo rocket boosters were tested here. In fact, that was the original and sole function of the MTF. Silent after the last roaring Saturn engine test in October of 1970, the giant test stands have recently been modified. Tests are now being conducted on the space shuttle engines for NASA's Shuttle program. This work, plus some other space program related assignments from time to time, keeps NSTL's head in the stars.

But, its feet are firmly earthbound through its experiments and demonstration projects being conducted here by NASA personnel. As Henry Auter says, "Our heads may be in the stars and our feet on the ground, but our hands are involved in so many projects that we have a hard time meeting our commitments and schedules."

As we said, NASA's people at MISSISSIPPI NSTL are performing services for the other resident agency scientists, and at the same time, conducting a great number of demonstration projects of their own. Among any number of experiments and projects being worked on are two that have been widely publicized.

Congratulations ...

OUR Patriots!

PETER SALEM IS A NAME WELL REMEMBERED IN THE ANNALS OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION... HAVING ALREADY DISTINGUISHED HIMSELF AT THE BATTLES OF LEXINGTON AND CONCORD, HE WAS SINGLED OUT FOR MERITORIOUS ACTION AT BUNKER HILL.
AN ON-THE-SCENE WITNESS DESCRIBED THE YOUNG BLACK'S HEROISM AS CREATING A TURNING POINT IN FAVOR OF THE AMERICAN PATRIOTS DURING THE BUNKER HILL BATTLE... AT A CRITICAL MOMENT, SALEM DISPATCHED A KEY BRITISH OFFICER WHO DEMANDED THE PATRIOT'S SURRENDER...
TODAY, LIKE THE VOLUNTEERS OF 1775, BLACK U.S. ARMY RESERVISTS CONTINUE TO PLAY AN IMPORTANT PART IN OUR NATION'S DEFENSE.

Immunizations effective against childhood diseases

October has been designated Immunization Action Month for the third consecutive year, growing out of a cooperative effort among organized medicine, the State Board of Health, the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, industry and volunteer organizations.

Dr. Alton B. Cobb, Mississippi State Health Officer, explained the purpose of the campaign.

"We now have the know-how and very effective vaccines to prevent such serious childhood diseases as polio and measles, but the truth of the matter is that many children simply aren't being vaccinated. As a result, these diseases still occur, causing crippling complications and deaths that could easily have been prevented.

According to Dr. Cobb, the percentages of children vaccinated for some of the diseases are not sufficiently high to prevent local epidemics.

"We could return to the days of real tragedy, when many young lives were lost and many children were permanently crippled from complications of these diseases," he said. "Anyone who witnessed the polio epidemics of the 50's knows the horror we're trying to prevent."

"When vaccines first became available, they were widely used because people had seen the results of the diseases and wanted to make sure that their children were protected," Dr. Cobb said. "As the years pass and the memory fades, both parents and physicians have become less diligent about vaccinations. This has led to the present condition in which the nation once again faces the possibility of local epidemics."

"Current statistics show that only 63.3 percent of two-year-olds in the state have been vaccinated against polio," he said. "Also, the immunization rates on diphtheria, tetanus and whooping cough are a very low 48.5 percent for two-year-olds in Mississippi."

During October, Dr. Cobb explained, educational messages will be appearing in newspapers and on radio and televison, discussing the diseases and the importance of immunization.

Dr. Cobb urged that parents make sure that theiir children are vaccinated against seven childhood diseases: polio, measles, mumps, rubella, diphtheria, tetanus and whooping cough.

"Unvaccinated children, and children whose parents are not sure about the vaccination record, should be taken to their private physician or health department without delay," Dr. Cobb said. "To remain unprotected is a serious and needless risk, a rish no child should face."

GOOD NEWS THAT AFFECTS OUR LIVES

LIVING STANDARD LINKED TO ENERGY SUPPLY

The next time you walk into your office or pick up the tools of your trade, you might want to tip your hat to the people who supply our energy.

The interesting fact is that for the past two decades our economic and energy growth have been in almost perfect lock step. If you were to chart our annual energy growth rate, it would show a one-to-one correlation with our economic growth. Energy is essential for economic growth.

A lot of experts agree that the long-range prospects for keeping our energy supply in balance with our energy demands call for new trends in the use of our natural resources. Unhappily, our domestic reserves of oil and gas are limited. Those who have studied the fuel situation often agree that the answer lies in nuclear power.

There is great hope in keeping our energy supply healthy because of a type of nuclear reactor called the breeder reactor. The breeder differs from conventional reactors in that it creates more fuel than it consumes while producing electricity. In addition to being a needed source of fuel for electric power generation, breeder reactors, such as the Clinch River Breeder Reactor Plant, planned for Tennessee, will mean lower cost electric power for the consumer.

The breeder reactor will not only continue to make low-cost nuclear generated electricity available, thus helping to provide jobs and a satisfactory standard of living, but it will help to free the nation from the dangerous dependence upon imported oil from foreign nations. The breeder reactor provides our nation with the potential for achieving energy independence.

Senior Citizens Happenings

Don Mauffray
Recreation Director

On Sunday, Sept. 28th, 42 members of the Senior Citizens Choral Group motored to Pearlington to sing at the 9:30 a.m. services at Pearlington Methodist Church. Rev. Walt Porter, who until recently was the Information and Referral Director of the Mississippi Southern Planning and Development District, is the new pastor of the church. After the services we all enjoyed delicious homemade cake and coffee in the Fellowship Hall.

Our Choral Group is practicing a couple of patriotic songs to sing at the Flag Raising Ceremonies officially designating the cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland and Hancock County as bicentennial communities. These ceremonies will be held in front of the Hancock County Courthouse today, beginning at 10 a.m. with the presentation of the bicentennial flag highlighting the event. John McKenna is chairman.

We were delightfully entertained at the congregate meals here at V. C. J. Center on Tuesday, Sept. 30, by Elaine Jaquillard's pupils from her School of Gymnastics. It's always a pleasure having these lovely children perform for us and we look forward to having them over again.

Due to Hurricane Eloise we were unable to have our monthly birthday party here at the V. C. J. Center. Everyone was busy preparing for the long night ahead. More than 100 senior citizens were cared for here.

We were, however, able to have our monthly party at Kiln V. F. W. with approximately 50 in attendance. Leonard Rupp, our bus driver assisted by Wallace Haas of the V. F. W. did a beautiful job of frying the chicken while Harold Cospelich called the games. Mrs. Betty Carroll entertained us again at the keyboard while everyone joined in singing old favorites.

Eckerd Drug Store of Bay St. Louis Mall has extended all senior citizens the courtesy of a discount on all of their medical needs. Seniors need only go by the drugstore and pick up an application blank.

GOOD PSYCHOLOGY

Too often graduating seniors feel overwhelmed by the responsibility the job world presents. So it's often good psychology to prepare for that world before graduating. A part-time job, or at least some scouting around for career opportunities, during the last year in high school is a smart idea to prevent post-commencement panic.

It's good psychology not to do things in a hurry—and that includes choosing a lifetime career. The Marine Corps Reserve offers high school seniors plenty of time to think about what they want to do—and at the same time that they're becoming full-fledged Marines. Students begin training before graduation—and get paid for it—and then enter the Corps within 60 days after graduation.

For details about the range of enlistment programs and opportunities in the Marine Corps Reserve, call this toll-free number: (800) 423-2600.

Chemicals helpful in weed control

Chemicals may never completely replace mechanical means of controlling unwanted vegetation, but they do help. This is especially true where edgers and mowers cannot be conveniently used.

In many cases, chemicals will give longer lasting and more economical control.

Paraquat, cacoylic acid and weed oils are excellent as contact weed killers, killing only the plants sprayed. These materials work well for edging around buildings, walkways, shrubbery and other such areas.

In many cases atrazine, karmex or simazine can be added to prevent new annual weeds from emerging. All precautions and directions listed on the label should be followed to the letter when using any agricultural chemical.

Excellent grass herbicides include DSMA, MSMA and Dalapon. If a general knockdown of either annual or perennial grassy type plants is desired, then dalapon would be the choice. If sensitive plants are not nearby, 2,4-D can be added to the dalapon to destroy most grasses and broadleaf weeds.

OVERSEEDING RYEGRASS

Overseeding Ryegrass on permanent pastures is a big part of any full season grazing production program.

Before overseeding, all excess grass must be grazed off or clipped closely by late October. If ryegrass is sown on sod over three inches high, results will usually be poor.

Ryegrass can be sown on the surface with no soil disturbance, but it will germinate slowly and probably not provide any grazing until late January.

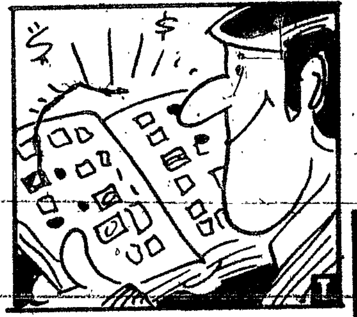
A better method is to run a spring-time type pasture renovator on the contour. This will loosen the compacted surface area and allow water and organic matter to move into the root area of the sod. It breaks the land and increases the water storage capacity of the soil without destroying the established sod.

Seed the ryegrass. Then harrow to smooth the field. Run a cultipacker for quick germination.

SOILS TESTING

Another record year for the Extension Service's state soils testing laboratory at Mississippi State University is expected, so send your samples in as soon as possible to avoid possible delays in processing. Remember to take a good representative sample because the recommendation you get from the lab can be no better than the sample you send in.

Q. My stamp-nut neighbor may not be so nutty as I thought. He recently told me that his collection had just been appraised for over $5,000! When I asked him if it was insured he said that it was covered under his homeowners insurance policy. Is it?



A. Yes it is, but only for a portion of what he says it is worth. He should check to see just how much of it is covered in case of a loss.

If he is not covered for full value of his stamp collection, then additional coverage may be added. Without it, your stamp friend may take a licking.

Jonage Star topples record in 250

Special to the Echo

PEARL RIVER. La Jonage Star ran the only Class AAA time ever for the 250-yard distance at Oak Downs and broke a long-standing track record here Sunday.

Hancock County horses winning Sunday were Jeanine Watson's Little Cabbage, Lesli Dedeaux' Lightning Bar Tag and Bobby Patton's Marine O'Van.

Owned and trained by Merlin Marechal and ridden by Ralph Shubert, Jonage Star covered the distance in 13.60 seconds. [illegible] Natalie Go Quick was second at 13.9[illegible].

The record-setting performance came in the last of 15 races held Sunday at the Pearl River oval.

The 250-yard track record has been held since June 18, 1972 by the famous Jack The Ripper who posted a 13.6 [illegible] clocking. Jonage Star knocked Jack The Ripper out of one track record but he still holds one standard by himself and is the co-holder of another mark.

The previous best time for the [illegible] meet at 350 yards was turned in March [illegible] by [illegible] Winner [illegible]

Sunday's results:

1) 350 yards, Jewel, 18.2[illegible] seconds, Jimmy [illegible], owner and trainer; Charlie Silkwood, jockey. Go Reckless Roy, 20.1[illegible].

Bicentennial Medal To Be Used At Games

There is a new twist to that coin you see being flipped before most college football games this fall. In fact, officials could be asking team captains if they want Paul Revere on the Minutemen, instead of heads or tails.

The coin used is likely to be the official 1975 Bicentennial commemorative medal, thanks to the efforts of the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) and a donation from the International Paper Company of New York.

The medal commemorates the famous ride of Paul Revere and depicts the Minuteman Statue on Lexington Common as a tribute to the small band of volunteers who "fired the shot heard round the world."

The NCAA, a member of the National Bicentennial Sports Alliance (NBSA), is encouraging all member schools to use the medal to call attention to its availability. International Paper is picking up the cost of providing the medals to the schools.

The medal is issued by the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration (ARBA) and produced by the United States Mint. The ARBA also sponsors the NBSA as a means of stimulating and encouraging participation in the Bicentennial.

Net revenues from the sale of the medals are used primarily to support state and local Bicentennial programs around the nation.

Available in bronze ($3.50) and silver ($15.00), the medals can be ordered by sending a check or money order to: ARBA, P. O. Box 1976, San Francisco, California 94101.

Order forms for official 1975 commemoratives can be obtained from local chapters of the Disabled American Veterans, who have joined with the ARBA to help raise funds

Serve Meals From The Grill For Family Fun This Fall

MISSISSIPPI STATE – The aroma of charcoal broiled steaks, barbecued chicken, or hickory flavored pork chops arising from backyard grills scents the warm evening air as families take to the outdoors to eat. Meals from the grill are just as good in the fall as they are in the summer.

A wingding outdoor meal takes planning, says Mrs. Ann Rushing, marketing specialist, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service. Outdoor meals can be just as nutritious and appetizing as those prepared in the kitchen. In fact, they vary little in requirements from other meals. The specialist says they should include the following:

- A leafy, green or yellow vegetable.
- A main dish, such as meat, cheese, fish or eggs.
- Bread, toast, buns or biscuits.
- Fruit or other simple dessert.
- Beverage – milk, coffee or tea.

Variety is the keynote of meal planning. Remember to plan flavors that go well together, but do not serve too many strong-tasting foods. Keep your meals simple, plan foods that are easy to prepare, and allow all to have fun. The success of any outdoor meal depends as much on your hospitality as on the goodness of the food you serve.

[illegible] Mrs. Rushing [illegible] plan on one-half to three-fourths pound of boneless steak per serving or one pound for hearty eaters; bone-in steaks, [illegible] to one and one-half pounds per servings; rolled boneless roasts, one-half to three-fourths pound per person; bone-in roasts, such as ribs of beef, three-fourths to one and one-fourth pounds per serving, chicken (one and one-half to two and one-half pound size), one-half chicken per serving; beef ribs, one to one and one-half pounds per serving, spareribs, one and one-half to two pounds per servings. All weights are for the uncooked meat.

Beef cuts that are most successfully used for cooking on the grill, says Mrs. Rushing, are porterhouse, T-bone, sirloin, club, rib, filet, rib eye and blade or chuck steak. For rotisserie cooking use the rib, rump, eye of round, tenderloin or sirloin tip.

Cook pork well done, but do not overcook. The most popular cuts are the rolled fresh pork shoulder, cured and smoked hams, back ribs and spareribs, loin, rib, Canadian style bacon and cubed pork.

Millsaps Sets Homecoming

Millsaps College has set Nov. 7-8 for Homecoming Weekend this year when hundreds of alumni are expected to return to the campus.

Highlights of the weekend will include a Friday night dinner for the Early Days Club, the Homecoming Dance, an all campus picnic and the game against Austin College of Sherman, Tex.

The Homecoming Banquet on Saturday night will feature the presentation of the Alumnus-of-the-Year Award and a State of the College Address by Dr. Edward M. Collins Jr., Millsaps president.

Class reunions to be held this year include the Golden and Silver Anniversary Classes, 1926 and 1941, along with 12 other classes.

MVC To Police Improper License Tags

Motor Vehicle Comptroller Bob Sharpe announced today that effective November 1st, field enforcement personnel from the motor vehicle privilege tax division would begin a statewide crackdown on use of improper tags.

"Anyone found in violation of the road and bridge privilege tag laws of the State of Mississippi will be cited and appropriate action will be taken according to law. Our law enforcement personnel will work closely with law officers from municipalities and counties throughout the state in order to cut down on use of improper tags, including dealer tags, tags improperly displayed, and out-of-state and out-of-county tags on vehicles where the owner resides or maintains his principal place of business in a jurisdiction other than where the tag was purchased," said Sharpe.

The penalty for the use of improper tags in Mississippi provides that the offender will be liable for the full annual tax in the county which he resides or maintains his principal place of business, plus a 25 percent penalty.

Sharpe also said that any citizen aware of license tag misuse may contact the motor vehicle privilege tax division at 354-7414.

An Apple Nature's Toothbrush

If you can't brush after every meal, eat an apple. The apple has superior cleaning powers, according to dental education authorities.

While dentists have given the nod to the virtues of the apple, they in no way imply that it will ever replace thorough brushing and flossing. But, for snacking and a good way to end a meal, it's a good thought and a good food.

And a timely one. Apples are coming to market this month in a big way. According to marketing specialists of the U. S. Department of Agirculture, the total fall crop is expected to reach a hefty 173.7 million bushels. That represents a 12 percent increase over last year's figure and establishes a new commercial crop record.

From the apply industry comes word that the fibrous texture and the non-adherent nature of the fruit make the apple a natural aid in cleaning the teeth. Gums, teeth, and facial muscles all come into play for some healthy exercise when apple munching.

That old adage of "An apple a day..." is adding virtues to the fruit that says "Smile."

Some people say it is unlucky if a hare crosses your path, because it may be a witch in disguise.

SECTION B THURSDAY, OCTOBER 9, 1975 PAGE 1

Wm. Dodge 1867-1935

Some of Dodge's more important murals are seen in the Library of Congress, New York's Hall of Records, Brooklyn's Academy of Music, and the Empire Theatre in New York City.

From Thomas Hastings, architect for the New York Public Library, Dodge received two outstanding assignments: the panels for "The Tower of Jewels" in the entrance to San Francisco's Panama Pacific International Exposition, and the mural "Europe Through the Ages" done for the New York home of famous Hearst editor, Arthur Brisbane.

Although born in Virginia, Dodge was Paris trained where he became a student in Gerome's Ecole des Beaux Arts life drawing class. Among Dodge's close friends at the Beaux Arts were sculptors Frederick MacMonnies and George Gray Barnard. George Bridgman, anatomy teacher of great reputation, also formed one of the Beaux Arts group.

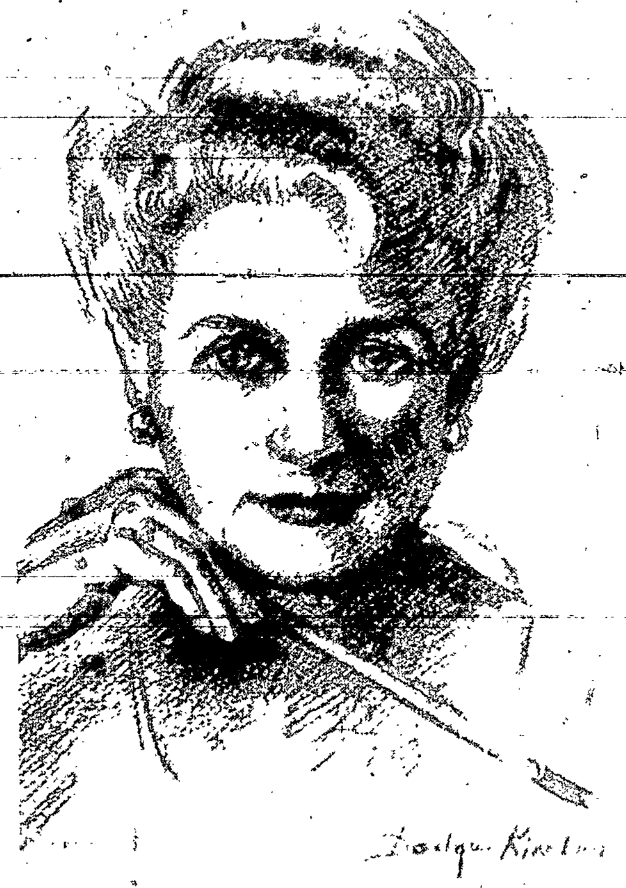
While living in Giverny, where Monet and his fellow impressionists painted, Dodge acquired the technique of the fragmented, small strokes that characterized the Impressionist movement.

A later teacher of composition at the Art Students League, New York, and a professor at Cooper Union Art School, Dodge never abandoned his belief that nature was "the finest teacher."

"Everywhere you look," he said, "there's a swell design if you can only see it."

"Youth" is moved to the waiting van from the Kimbrough home.

By DAN BARBER



Self portrait

A formidable collection of the late American Impressionist William de Leftwich Dodge (1867-1935) is being seen publicly for only the second time since the artist's death in 1935 and perhaps even more noteworthy to critics is being seen for the first time together with work of the artist's daughter Sara Dodge Kimbrough of Bay St. Louis.

The joint father-daughter showing is presently completing a tour of the South and an exhibit began Sunday, Oct. 5 at the Fielding Wright Art Center on the campus of Delta State University in Cleveland, Miss.

Earlier this spring exhibition of Dodge's work by itself was presented at Columbia Museum of Art in Columbia, S. C., the Telfair Academy of Arts and Science in Savannah, Ga., and the Fine Arts Museum of the South in Mobile, Ala.

The exhibit entitled "Done From Life" includes a survey of the artist's work in the mediums of oils, watercolors, mural sketches and life drawings. Mrs. Kimbrough, a portraitist and still life artist, is including 22 works of her own.

Although Dodge is known primarily for his murals (he gained national recognition in the U. S. as a muralist) his easel works are also highly regarded.

Following Dodge's death, the easel paintings inherited by his daughter were carefully preserved in storage, and only in the past several years has his work been shown publicly.

"Practically all of father's work has been in storage until this tour," Sara Kimbrough explains as we sit in the art filled living room of her home "Glen Oak" facing the Bay of Saint Louis.

"The only exception was a special showing in Jackson in 1972 sponsored by the Mississippi Arts Association," she adds.

"That showing and this tour were the initial effort to bring the pictures out."

Why were the paintings kept in storage so long is the natural question which came to [illegible].

"Yes, it is unusual," she says, her blue eyes measuring her subject carefully.

"The reason of course was that after Hunter and I were married in 1933 we traveled and moved around a great deal."

She sits in one of the straight backed chairs, her hands either folded and resting in her lap or with one arm up, her head gently resting against the hand.

"We're calling it a father-daughter show," she says with a twinkle in her eyes, "although I said once I would never show with my father because I feel his work is so much better than mine."

All of the works being exhibited by Mrs. Kimbrough, who signs her work Dodge Kimbrough, are owned by her with the exception of "Girl at the Window" which is on loan from the Gulf Coast Greater Arts Council and another portrait privately owned by Mrs. Sara Bailey McBee of Greenwood, Mississippi. The painting acquired by the Arts Council will be housed in their new arts building which will be built next to the Mississippi Gulf Coast Coliseum.

The exhibits of Mrs. Kimbrough's father comprise a major part of the work left her at his death. Some still remain in storage in New York.

Sara Dodge was a favorite model of her father at the family's home in Setauket, Long Island and is captured in many of her father's watercolors and oils.

"I was an available model," she remembers with a slight laugh.

Others in the Dodge family also came to be on canvas. Included in the Delta State showing will be a large painting entitled "Portrait of Mrs. Dodge and Roger," a portrait of Sara Kimbrough's mother and brother. The painting was exhibited at the Paris Salon in 1904. There were other works done including "Portrait of Mrs. Dodge" and "Roger and Sally."

"The Clothesline" is one of Dodge's most forceful and sought after paintings.

One of Dodge's favorite mediums, this watercolor was painted at the family home in Setauket, Long Island.

Sara Kimbrough, who began her own art study in her teens, assisted her father with his murals for the Buffalo City Hall and for the Flag Room in New York State Capitol, posing for the central figure representing New York State.

"I was an assistant to my father in the actual painting," said Mrs. Kimbrough quickly adding "the whole scheme of the mural was his though — the color, the theme was all his. What I did was what any assistant could do."

HGH AUXILIARY

Members of the Hancock General Hospital Women's Auxiliary voted to give $2000 toward a portable heart defibrillator to be used in the emergency room of the hospital, at the suggestion of the hospital administrator Mrs. Mona Santiago.

Auxiliary president Mrs. Agnes Chevis will present the check in the near future.

Other business transacted at the October meeting of the Auxiliary included reports from various committee chairmen. Items added to the Loan Closet include a hospital bed, donated by Mrs. Selma George, two pairs of crutches donated by Mrs. Elda Duke and two wheel chairs donated by Mrs. Andrew Lizana.

A new policy was established that no TV's will be turned on for patients after the Pink Lady doing Floor Duty has left for the day. Additional Pink Ladies to do Floor Duty are badly needed, and the Auxiliary welcomes all new members. Candy-Stripers continue to meet regularly and are most helpful on weekends.

Announcement was made of the first annual meeting of the Society for Hospital Auxilians and Hospital Administrators to be held in Jackson on October 28.

A new member, Mrs. Winifred Kohnen of Waveland, was made welcome and plans for her indoctrination for Pink Lady Floor duty were finalized.

JUNIOR AUXILIARY

Region IV of the National Association of Junior Auxiliaries held its annual meeting on October 1, at Gulf Hills Dude Ranch in Ocean Springs, Mississippi. The meeting was attended by four Bay-Waveland Junior Auxiliary members; Lila Jean Dearing, Paula Woodfin, Vivian Rosetti, and Grace Santa Cruz.

The Bay-Waveland Chapter participated in one of the many workshops given at the meeting by giving a report on their Health Fair held in May at the North Bay Elementary School.

Other workshops included: The Abused Child, JA Working in Schools, JA Patriotic Participation, Spirit of '76 JA Style, Projects, Finance, and Publicity.

KREWE OF NEREIDS

The Captain of The Krewe of Nereids announced at the annual Fall meeting that the krewe will stage is 10th annual parade, Feb. 22, 1976 at 2 p.m.

The parade will consist of 16 floats plus numerous marching bands and groups. Edward Scanlon, float designer and builder has just completed the floats for the special 10th anniversary parade.

The new parade route for the Nereids 1976 Parade will start at the corner of Waveland Avenue and proceed down Central to Lafitte Drive, then South on Beach Blvd. to Coleman Avenue, then back to Central and the point of beginning at Waveland Avenue.

The Krewe will sponsor a Halloween Party October 25th at St. Clare Parish Hall from 9 p.m. until 1 a.m. The evening will consist of a live band and entertainment by members of the Krewe. Tickets are on sale at the Waveland Drug and from members of the Krewe.

Mesdames Genevieve Cole, Taledo Oliver and June Mayton of the Disabled Veterans Auxiliary Bay St. Louis,-Waveland Area Chapter No. 50 have returned from Nashville, Tennessee where they attended the National Sixth District Conference of the Disabled American Veterans Auxiliary.

On Saturday night they attended the annual banquet in the Heritage Grand Ball Room of the King of the Road Motel which included on the agenda guest speakers John Keller, of the National Services Officers, Washington, D. C., and Mrs. Mary Beth Schultz, National Commander of Ladies Auxiliary. Other distinguished guests were Mrs. Bea Campbell, National Executive Committee-Woman of Maryville, Tennessee and Joe Abernathy, National Executive Committee Man of Pass Christian, Miss.

They also toured the home of Andrew Jackson built for his wife Rachael.

To highlight the activities they took a cruise down the Chamberland River aboard the "Bell Carol" of the Cumberland whose owner is Nashville's only licensed Woman River Boat Captain.

In route home they visited the St. Bernard Aya Maria Grotto in Cullman, Alabama.

CLERMONT HAND-CRAFTERS

Clermont Handcrafters Club met Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. William Richardson Jr., Waveland.

During the business session conducted by Mrs. Maurice George, club president, members voted to help the Crippled Children's Foundation, Kiln, as its main project for the year. Plans were discussed for a Christmas party for the children. Mrs. John Everard and Mrs. A.M. Thomas were appointed party chairmen.

The club will hold a cake sale Nov. 22 with Mrs. Richardson and Mrs. Fred Horn as chairmen. The place will be announced later.

Following the business session a crochet hanging basket workshop was conducted by Mrs. George.

Hostesses for the social hour were Mesdames Ruby Bennett, William Richardson, Lloyd Garcia and Fred Horn.

The November meeting will feature a Christmas tree ornament workshop.

NARFE

A bicentennial program was presented by Mrs. Naomi Owen at the September meeting of National Association of Retired Federal Employees, Chapter 209, at Knight's of Columbus Hall in Gulfport.

Bicentennial is the celebration of our country's two hundredth birthday, Mrs. Owen said and we should all get involved in this celebration with our goal a new national commitment.

The histories of our national anthem and other patriotic songs was told and singing was led by Mrs. Byrd Cassibry and Charles Cox.

Fred Logan was elected president for next year. Other officers elected were Charles Cox, first Vice President; Chester Wilcox, second Vice President; Frances Kovacevich, Secretary, and Florrie Cranston, Treasurer.

The next meeting will be held Oct. 16 at Newman's Seafood Restaurant, at which time the new officers will be installed.

BEAT 1 ASSOCIATION

There will be a meeting of the Hancock County Beat One Civic Association Thursday night Oct. 9 at Gulfview School at 8 p.m.

ST. MONICA GUILD

Mrs. John McCloskey and Mrs. Walter Carter chairmen in charge of the St. Monica Guild rummage sale at Trinity Episcopal Church in Pass Christian reported nearly $1,000 in profit as a result of the sale last Friday and Saturday. Money will go toward church related and charitable causes.

In addition the Salvation Army was given for distribution a huge truckload of clothing, shoes, and various articles left over from the sale, and a generous carton of clothing was sent to a DAR sponsored Indian School.

The chairwomen expressed gratitude in behalf of the Guild to those who made donations, to those who made purchases and to those who worked as volunteers during the sale.

St. Clare's Parish News

Recent guest speakers at St. Clare's School were Charles Carter, Hancock County Civil Defense Director, who discussed protection against natural disasters; James Harriel who spoke to students on water safety and Robert Tartavoulle, the Waveland Police Department, who discussed bicycle safety.

Karen Fayard and Diane Dodson will represent St. Clare's School at the Hancock County Bicentennial ceremony at 10:30 a.m. today to be held on Hancock County Court House grounds.

Cox-Rutherford

Miss Sherry Cox, daughter of Patricia Cospelich of Bay St. Louis and Milton Paul Cox of Gulfport, and Mr. Linwood Rutherford Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Linwood Rutherford of Waveland, were united in marriage Sept. 19 at the mother of the bride's home.

The service was performed by Justice of the Peace J. L. Gonzales.

Mrs. Elizabeth Garcia of Clermont Harbor was the bride's matron of honor. The groom's best man was David Seville of Bay St. Louis.

The couple will reside in Bay St. Louis.

Echo forecasts

D'Iberville sending 'headhunters' against Rockachaws

All games were played more or less as expected last week accounting for the Echo forecasters superior showing with 10 of 10 predictions coming true. Although it is a bitter pill for many to swallow, the Echo forecasters now can boast an 82 percent and 76 percent average which might qualify us to work for the Harris presidential polls.

Actually the season has been played for the most part with relatively few surprises. About the only surprise has been the animosity shown by a few individuals toward the unbiased truthfulness of the Echo forecasters. We have to call 'em like we see 'em fans. That's the rules of the game.

A few interesting local clashes are scheduled for play this weekend with Hancock North Central at Pearl River Central promising the greatest challenge for the pollster's. Bay High at Long Beach could also prove to be a toss up if the Bearcats can manage to gather their loose ends together on offense and the Tigers under Alliston can put together a team after last week's 26-0 shellacking by Poplarville.

The Warriors of D'Iberville exhibited the offense of old last week as they defeated PRC 34-6. They could prove tough against the Rockachaws if they follow that game with another good effort. About the only local game that should be a shoo-in is Pass against St. Martin.

This is the way this week's games look to us:

Oct. 9

Bay High at Long Beach
BARBER–Bay 20-14. Tigers have the material if they just use it.
LOIACANO–Bay 21-10. The better offense will win.
MYSTERY MAN–Long Beach 14-0. Bearcats are hungry.

D'Iberville at Stanislaus
BARBER–Stanislaus 21-20. Cliff hanger all the way.
LOIACANO–27-12. The Warriors defense not strong enough.
MYSTERY MAN–D'Iberville 18-14. Rocks will make mental errors.

St. Martin at Pass Christian
BARBER–Pass 30-0. Pirates should find this easy.
LOIACANO–Pass 34-6. Yellow Jackets have no offense.
MYSTERY MAN–Pass 18-0. You can't go against Mother Nature.

Hancock at Pearl River
BARBER–Hawks 13-7. Good rivalry here.
LOIACANO–PRC 21-14. PRC needs a win.
MYSTERY MAN–PRC 16-13. Hawks luck gives out.

Oct. 10

USM at Memphis State
BARBER–Memphis State 17-14; Tigers and Golden Eagles battle evenly until fourth.
LOIACANO–USM 17-14. Barber's alma mater doesn't have it.
MYSTERY MAN–State 10-7. First period FG makes difference.

Georgia at Ole Miss
BARBER–Georgia 32-7. Another excedrin headache for Cooper.
LOIACANO–Georgia 24-7. Ole Miss like the Saints.
MYSTERY MAN–Georgia 30-6. Nothing can help Rebels now.

Mississippi State at Rice
BARBER–Rice 21-6. State's schedule getting tougher.
LOIACANO–State 17-14. State coming off a big win.
MYSTERY MAN–State 20-10. Just a hunch.

Gulf Coast at Pearl River
BARBER–Gulf 17-3. Perk hurricane hits Poplarville
LOIACANO–Gulf 27-14. Gulf is too strong.
MYSTERY MAN–Gulf 18-3. Wildcats will learn something.

Texas at Oklahoma
BARBER–Oklahoma 30-18. Sooners scared last week.
LOIACANO–Texas 21-17. Texas tough at home this week.
MYSTERY MAN–Texas 21-20. Button up your overcoat...you belong to me.

Vanderbilt at Florida
BARBER–Florida 17-9. Gators' offense is impressive.
LOIACANO–Florida 27-13. Vandy hurt from last week.
MYSTERY MAN–Vandy 20-12. Why not?

LSU at Tennessee
BARBER–Tennessee 23-3. Fools rush in where angels fear to tread.
LOIACANO–Tenn. 27-7. Vols are looking for revenge.
MYSTERY MAN–Tenn. 18-6. Tigers of McClendon receive another setback.

Bulling through

Halfback Oren Parker pushes for the extra yardage against Notre Dame Friday night as the Pirates shutout the Rebels 32-0 to up their unbeaten string to four.

KANTCHA KETCHUM

By L. S. (Doc) Elliott

It is time now to talk about hunting. But remember fishing still goes on. Fishing lasts all during the winter for both fresh and salt water fish. Bass fishing is good all the year round in most of our local streams. Of course, underwater baits pay off best but surface baits can be used all during the winter on warm sunny days. Salt water fishing is also good all during the winter months when speckle trout go up Jourdan River, in the canals at Bayou Cadet and Bayou Cadet itself.

Trolling is most effective up the Jourdan River and in places like the pipe line canal at Ansley, Outer and Inner Campbells.

Getting to hunting, some seasons are now open and others will open soon. For instance, duck and geese, rabbits, squirrel, for doves, etc. Other hunting will be for woodcock, snipe and rails. Did you know that if you get a duck stamp you can get some ducks while fishing plus snipe, woodcock, and rails which go mighty good in the cooking pans. It's a pleasure to mix fishing and hunting if one knows how.

Won't be long now before the barricades will be put at [illegible] Bayou, Black Bayou, and other bayous in the Little Lake area. There will be no fishing in these streams until after the hunting seasons. Lloyd [illegible] has charge of this work and will let us know when the barricades will be removed. Lloyd is a swell guy, a game warden and a hunter and fisherman.

Remember a lost or damaged license cannot be replaced unless you detach the stub and store in a safe place.

Sale of game fish: It is unlawful for any person to sell, offer for sale or exchange any game fish taken within Mississippi or coming from another state. It is also illegal for any restaurant or public eating establishment to possess or offer for sale any game fish. They may however, charge to prepare and serve game fish for any person who has taken the fish legally.

Bob Bardin is from Mobile but now lives Bay St. Louis. He catches a few speckles and occasionally red fish from the west end of the beach and off the municipal pier. He fishes with his son Bob, Jr.

A threesome from Slidell, La. fishing at Pearl River Saturday were David Catlett, Charles Parker and James Brand. They do any kind of fishing, salt or fresh water and come down regularly. Welcome to our section folks.

Jay and Jake Kraft are newcomers to this area. They are Seafood Brokers. Both are great tennis fans. Jay likes to flounder [illegible] throwing is a little [illegible]. Welcome folks.

Paul [illegible] who is with state auditors dept. currently doing audit work at the Court House is an ardent golfer. Says he shoots in the low 80's. Not bad, Paul. Keep trying. I can now shoot a 60 by the [illegible], after 60 years at the game. Old age has taken me over.

Junior Bourgeois does all kinds of fishing, crabbing, floundering, etc. When not working does all. Hope to join you, Junior.

[illegible] and myself went fishing Wednesday. Tried for speckles, reds, etc. Wound up with a mess of bass. Weren't doing too good.

SPORTSMAN OF THE WEEK–John Perniciaro fishes like he calls it, for fun. He goes on every occasion and enjoys it whether he catches them or not. But don't underrate John, he gets his share of fish.

Whether you know it or not there is some mighty good fresh water fishing up Pearl River around Logtown, Old River and all the way up to I-10 Bridge at Waiste House and beyond now that the main Pearl is clear. From Logtown and up there are some bayous that abound in green trout and perch. For instance, there are Bogue Homa and Wabash Bayous, Old River and the west bank of Pearl itself. Perch fishing in Old River is excellent. Blue Gills and Goggle Eye Perch are abundant. Ain't nothing to get an icebox full, providing the tide is falling. That is important.

You fishermen while getting a haircut can purchase all kinds of fishing tackle and baits from Al Kingston's Barber Shop. Give the old dog a bone and get yourself some seafood with the proper tackle

Donald and Ernest Strong caught 62 speckle trout along the Highway Bridge Friday morning. Why go all the way

Tigers must develop 'sticky fingers'

By DAN BARBER

How to catch the football is a subject coach Woody Alliston wants to make unequivocally certain his Tiger receivers have learned this week before they go up against Coach Tommy Seals Long Beach Bearcats this weekend.

Dropped passes, at least four in the end zone according to Alliston, played a big part in the Tigers hapless 0-26 showing to Poplarville last Friday.

"I just felt that this was the story of the game," Alliston said. "It was just the little routine catches that we dropped."

This week the Tigers have been practicing those receptions, according to Alliston, along with work on their timing.

"There was a lot said before the game about how good the Poplarville defense was," Alliston said, "but our receivers were beating them all night. We just couldn't hold onto the ball though."

The Tigers defense also seemed to concern Alliston who said the middle line needed work.

"We feel like Poplarville was the first team to move the ball up the middle on us," Alliston said, "and we needed to work on that."

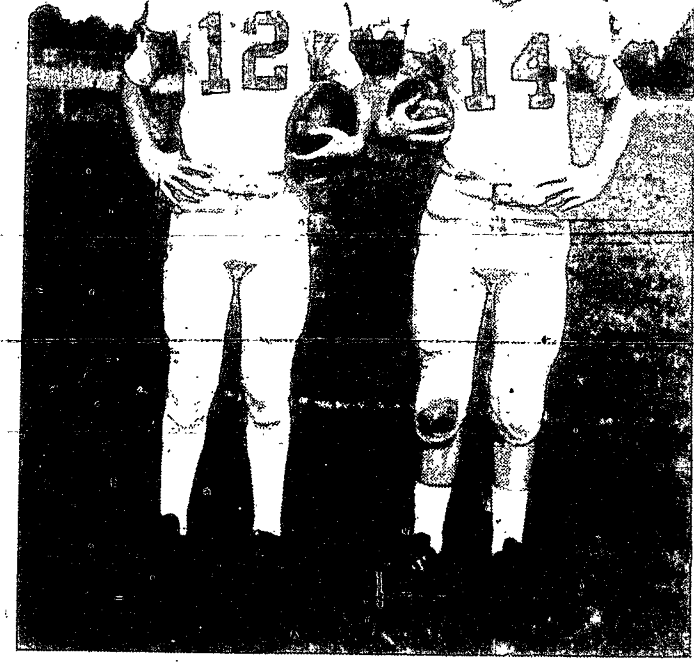
Defense will probably play a key part in the game against Long Beach too, according to Alliston. The challenge of the Tiger defense to contain leading rusher Albert Snow will only be equaled by the challenge to cut off the Bearcats short sprint out passing game.

"Long Beach is the best looking 'losing' team I've seen," Alliston commented. "They look real good but haven't been lucky."

"They have a quarterback who can throw real good and they seem to have opened up with their passing game more lately."

The Bearcats who are 1-4 overall and winless after two Gulf Coast conference games, are guaranteed to be after a win Friday night before a homecoming crowd. The Tigers will go into the fray trying to improve a 2-3 overall record and a 1-2 conference standing.

Kickoff time for the game at Long Beach is 7:30 p.m.



Signal callers

Bay Junior High signal callers for this Thursday night's game against Long Beach will be (left) Dwayne LaFontaine (12) and James Craig (14). The junior varsity currently boasts a 5-0 season record leading into its matchup with the junior Bearcats 7:30 p.m. in Tiger stadium.

Hornets fall 40-0

Tigers perfect record intact after Poplarville

The Bay Junior High Tigers defeated Poplarville 40-0 to remain undefeated after the first five games last Thursday night at Tiger stadium.

The Tiger offense has scored 108 points against their opponents while their defense has allowed only six points for the five games.

The first score of the game with Poplarville came on a 20 yard pass from quarterback Dwayne LaFontaine to Cellestine Jurrett. The PAT failed.

The Tiger's second score was an eight yard run by Jimmy Layne with Larry Jackson keeping for the two point conversion.

In the opening minutes of the second quarter, Ted Everidge scored on a five yard run up the middle as the PAT failed again.

The final score of the first half came on a 45-yard end sweep by fullback Mike Shiyou. The PAT by Andy Buehler failed and the half ended 26-0.

Bruce Cain opened up the second half with a 30-yard scamper up the middle followed by the PAT by Danny Rhodes.

The Tigers' last score was a nine yard run by Larry Jackson. The extra point failed and the Tigers ended the game 40-0.

Standouts on defense, according to Coach Billy Rhodes, were Andy Buehler, Sunny Palode, Ted Everidge, Walter Carter, Danny Bourgeois, Cellestine Jurrett, and Daniel Edwards.

The junior Tigers will host Long Beach this Thursday at Tiger stadium at 7:30 p.m.

Gulfview edges Pearlington 8-0

Gulfview edged Pearlington Friday afternoon 8-0 when the fifth and sixth grade teams met at Gulfview School.

Pearlington received the kick off from Gulfview only to fumble the ball on their own 30 yard line. Ray Williams pounced on the ball for the Bulldogs. Several plays later, Michael Cavalier ran in for a Bulldog Touchdown. Jay Lee scored the extra points.

After the first quarter score both teams got down to the nitty gritty of the game and neither could move the ball against the other. Pearlington's Kevin Lichenstein and Kenny Benigno threatened but the Bulldog defense held fast and the final score was 8-0.

It was the first game for both teams.

Perk, Gulf Coast place records on line

POPLARVILLE—The stage is set for the annual grudge match this Saturday night in Poplarville between Pearl River and Gulf Coast Junior College to decide the number one Mississippi junior college power in the Southern JUCO Conference.

Gulf Coast, better known as Perk, enters the classic battle ranked number four in the nation sporting a perfect 5-0 overall record and 2-0 division mark.

Pearl River on the other hand has only an opening loss at the hands of undefeated East Central of the Northern Division marring their season's ledger. The Cats are tied with Perk with a 2-0 conference record.

1948 saw the very first 'Cat-Dog' skirmish with Gulf Coast coming out on the winning end of a close 20-19 margin. For the preceding 17 years, the Bulldogs failed to muster enough points to down the nationally known Wildcats, led by the legendary Dobie Holden.

However, it was in 1965 that a young man by the name of George Sekul came to Perkinston, Mississippi and has since turned the coastal college town into a widely touted football power in the national JuCo ranks.

Since 1965, the 'Cat-Dog' record stands at a 5-5-0 mark and every year some of the most competitive grid action can be witnessed when the two powerful squads tie horns.

"There is no doubt about it, this could decide the champion of the Southern Conference," J.C. Arban, PRC head coach said. But this fact is nothing new for either team as the winner of the annual matchup has usually wound up in post season action representing their conference.

"We will have to have our best effort of the year and a lot of luck to beat this bunch," Arban said. "Everything must go right for us, and they will have to be forced to make mistakes," he added.

Arban complimented George Sekul, Gulf Coast head coach on the outstanding job he does in taking advantage of his opponents weaknesses. "We won't hurt them with the same play more than once," Arban said, "because Sekul will figure out a way to stop you."

Offensively the Gulf Coast Bulldogs will be running the Pro Set with wide outs and numerous variations. "They mix up their plays very well," Arban commented, "that's what makes them so hard to defense. Just when you have one set down they hit you with a pitch out or a pass."

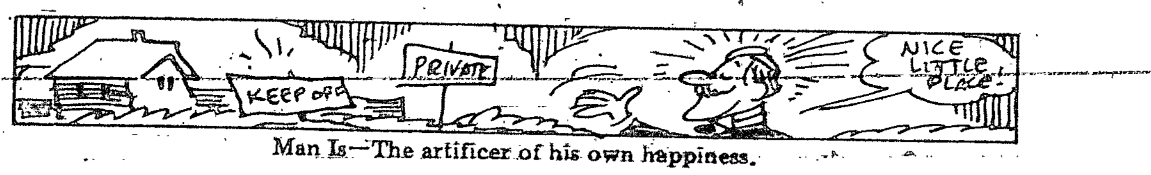
In last weeks action the Wildcats amassed 571 total yards to pound the Co-Lin Wolves 20-7. Gulf Coast on the other hand thrashed Mississippi Delta 47-0.

Arban named Tony Walker and Tim Heldth offensive players of the week and Randy Anderson copped the defensive award for their performances against the Co-Lin Wolves. Walker ran for 97 yards, scoring one touchdown and passing 21 yards for another. He completed 8 passes for 158 yards.

Heldth, split end, had four receptions for 63 yards, with his biggest catch coming on a third and 8 situation at the PRC two, when he grabbed a 21 yard strike to pull the Cats out of the hole.

Game time for the Saturday night clash has been set for 8 p.m. in Dobie Holden Stadium on the campus.

George County back Victor Mann eludes a tackle Friday night as the George County Rebels shut out the Long Beach Bearcats 21-0 in Long Beach.



Man Is—The artificer of his own happiness.

Ole Miss, Georgia keep 33 year old appointment Saturday

UNIVERSITY, Miss., — It was 33 years ago that Ole Miss and Georgia were to complete their three-game contract in the Rebels' Hemingway Stadium.

That date on the Johnny Reb schedule was Oct. 10, completing a string of mid-October action launched in 1940 and continued in 1941, with both games staged in Sanford Stadium — between the hedges, if they existed at that time.

The Rebs won the inaugural, 28-14. The second game brought a 14-14 standoff. It was played on a Friday night.

And Georgia was to invade in 1942, but the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor Dec. 7 dictated a different set of circumstances and the Ole Miss brass was forced to move the game to Memphis. Gasoline rationing forced that decision.

So, Saturday it turns up Georgia again after a 33-year wait. Then as now, it will be Homecoming for the Rebel faithful.

Georgia won that 1942 game in Memphis, 48-13, with Frankie Sinkwich and Charlie Trippi running wild. The decision would not have been that easy nor as one-sided had not the war cleaved over half of the Rebel squad a year ahead of the general exodus for most of the nation's schools.

And if it means anything, as was the case with the Tide, Ole Miss hasn't beaten the Bulldogs since 1970.

But they've never had them "down in the hollow" that is Hemingway Stadium. And while the Rebs have been beaten on that turf, of the natural variety prior to 1970 and AstroTurf for the last six seasons, it doesn't happen often.

Thirty-three years is a long time to wait for a game on your home lot. Maybe it will be a fortunate turn of events for Ole Miss this Saturday afternoon.

to the marsh when the fish are right here at home? They caught them on live shrimp.

Spent most of Saturday afternoon with August Rauxet working on his lawn. August went fishing Thursday and caught oodles of bass. Where I don't know. He has a big boat which he shares with his friends. Look out ducks and geese; August is coming to the marsh soon.

Was with regret I read of the death of James F. Taconi last week. He was retired from the postal service after 35 years. Son, as he was called, loved fishing, soft crabbing and crabbing. Sympathy is extended to his family.

Met John and Mary Rogash of New Orleans and the Bay. They are wonderful people. Don't go fishing much but enjoy eating them.

The Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries Commission set the 1975-'76 hunting seasons for ducks, geese, and coots, which provide for different seasons in both the east and west zones of the state under zoning provisions which will be tried by Louisiana on an experimental basis for four years.

Duck hunting in the west zone will open November 1, with the first split extending through November 30. The second split will open noon Wednesday, December 10 and extend through January 3, providing 55 days of duck hunting.

Did you know that when the duck seasons open you can carry your gun and get some good duck hunting while fishing but don't forget to purchase a hunting license and duck stamp. Both are necessary.

With winter approaching all sportsmen's fancies turn to hunting. In this neck of the woods one can hunt rabbits, coots, ducks, doves, etc. Why not get prepared, mix fishing with hunting?

Leonard Moran and his wife Myrtle are congenial folks. Enjoyed being with them. Leonard is a fisherman and Myrtle's hobby is dancing.

SPORT TALK Q & A

By Charlie Henderson

QUESTION: How could any golfer ever have a better year than Johnny Miller did with his nine wins in 1974?

ANSWER: Leaving out Byron Nelson, who won 13 of 23 tournaments in 1944 and 19 in 1945 (including that fabulous 11 in a row), for a total of 32 wins in just two years, some experts think Ben Hogan's year in 1953 was the best ever for quality. This was after his accident, and Hogan played in only seven tournaments. He won FIVE of them, including three of the major PGA tournaments, just one short of the Grand Slam.

QUESTION: Why do some tennis stars, like Jimmy Connors, Chris Evert and Bjorn Borg use the two-hand backhand?

ANSWER: Young players often use two hands for the backhand because they lack backhand strength in their teens. Some, like those mentioned, stay with it later. Rarely has the two-handed forehand been used by a major player. Pancho Segura and Jack Bromwich were two of the best, but no player of their rank uses it today. But as for the two-hand backhand, you can't fault either Connors or Miss Evert. They're winners!

Good enough to win is good enough.....and that goes for the trend setting GRANADA for 1975. It's a winner for style, performance and smooth efficiency. Come in for the car you really want!

JA scholarship candidates sought

The Bay-Waveland Junior Auxiliary announced this week that candidates are now being sought for the National Association of Junior Auxiliaries Scholarship Program.

Official application forms are available by contacting Mrs. Mark Uram, Scholarship Chairman for the local auxiliary.

The primary purpose of the program is to assist persons in graduate study in the fields related to training children with special needs such as mental health, mental retardation, speech therapy, exceptional children, remedial reading or other related fields at the National Committee's discretion.

Recipients may attend the college or university of their choice. Scholarship grants are awarded for graduate study in amounts from $100 to $3000. The decision regarding the awarding of scholarship grants will be announced in April and recipients will receive funding for the June 1, 1976 to May 31, 1977 scholarship year.

The purpose of scholarships is not to honor recipients but to present a gift to children who will benefit. Grants are awarded to applicants the committee feels will accomplish most with children of special needs.

On November 3, 1941, 100 enthusiastic women, representing organizations from ten towns in Mississippi and Arkansas, met in Greenville, Mississippi. Their purpose was to unite these particular groups who were interested in child welfare projects. Thus the National Association of Junior Auxiliaries was born. Today there are 60 chapters that devoted 102,630 hours to 1,429 service programs this past year.

The NAJA Scholarship Program was approved as a National project in 1962. Seventy-two scholarships totaling approximately $77,901 have been granted for graduate study in fields related to training of children with special needs. Countless thousands of children are the beneficiaries.

Those interested in obtaining more information concerning the program should contact Mrs. Mark Uram, Scholarship Chairman in the Bay-Waveland area.

The first coins called staters were made during the 600's B.C. in Lydea, a country in what is now Turkey.
